

Intro to Sculpture

Agenda

- what is sculpture?
- four main types of sculpture
- intro to artists
- intro to new project

What is Sculpture?

Type 1: Relief

- sculpture that comes out of a 2D background
- bas-relief, alto-relief, sunken-relief

Relief: Frank Stella

Diepolz II
1982, Frank Stella

Relief: Frank Stella

My Last Practicum 5th Grade Art Students made Frank Stella Inspired Relief Sculptures!

Relief: Frank Stella

Type 2: Free Standing

- any work of sculpture that can be viewed from all sides

Free-Standing: Brian Jungen

Multiple Totem Poles
2007, Brian Jungen

Free-Standing: Brian Jungen

Court

2011, Brian Jungen

Installing Brian Jungen's Court: <http://youtu.be/rElZ-Eh1ct8>

Free-Standing: Brian Jungen

Court

2011, Brian Jungen

Installing Brian Jungen's Court: <http://youtu.be/rElZ-Eh1ct8>

Type 3: Kinetic

- free-standing sculpture that moves
- movement can come from mechanical power, wind power or water

Kinetic: Alexander Calder

Rouge Triomphant
1959-63, Alexander Calder

Kinetic: Alexander Calder

Snow Flurry
1948, Alexander Calder

In Motion: <http://youtu.be/DScnuGhDuOc>

Kinetic: Alexander Calder

Snow Flurry
1948, Alexander Calder

In Motion: <http://youtu.be/DScnuGhDuOc>

Type 4: Assemblage

- sculpture pieced together from found or scavenged items
- non-traditional sculpture, more recent form of sculpture
- collages are a 2D form of assemblage

Assemblage: Louise Nevelson

Untitled
1985, Louise Nevelson

Assemblage: Louise Nevelson

Dawn's Wedding Feast
1959, Louise Nevelson

Assemblage: Louise Nevelson

Mrs. N's Palace
1964-77, Louise Nevelson